Prague, Czech Republic—Prague Fringe Festival (Fringe Festival Praha) will present the European Premiere production of THEATER IN ASYLUM (TIA)’s ¡Olé!, named Audience Favorite at the 2013 Chicago Fringe Festival and Best Touring Production at the 2013 Rochester Fringe Festival.

¡Olé! is a flamenco dance-theater piece about the alleged affair between painter Salvador Dalí and poet Federico Garcia Lorca between 1919-1936.

The two artists meet in university and begin a tumultuous relationship that ensnares them in an endless argument over the nature of and reason for art. The affair and the argument explode when the two spend a life-altering summer together in Cadaqueez, Spain. An original flamenco score weaves through this 60-minute piece, which is accompanied by a live guitarist and features the darkness and passion of flamenco dance.

Throughout the piece, Lorca and Dalí, whose very cells vibrate with the force of their passion, debate the purpose of art in full body and full voice using a combination of their own poetry, letters, and other works. History carries these men into the heart of Franco-occupied Spain, a world where neither their art nor their love can survive. In response, Dalí flees the country, but Lorca remains rooted in Spain, creating art to change his world and face the new fascist and militarized society, all the way to the firing squad.

The production will run Tuesday, May 27-Saturday, May 31 at 8pm at A Studio Rubín (Malostranské nám. 9, Malá Strana, Prague 1).

Performed by Frankie Alicea, Adrian Bridges, Jake Lasser & Sofia Lund
Original Score by Randall Benichak
Choreographed by Katie Palmer & Theresa Burns
Lighting Design by Dan Stearns
Dramaturgy by Samantha Keogh & Jake Lasser

SALVADOR DALI was born on May 11, 1904 in Figueres, Spain. He began painting at a very young age and had his first public exhibition in 1919. He enrolled at the Academia de San Fernando in Madrid in 1922, where he met Federico Garcia Lorca for the first time, but was eventually expelled after refusing to take his final exams. He began his first surrealist paintings in 1929 and became a major figure in the movement with his "paranoiac-critical method," which allowed the artist to access the subconscious in order to enhance creativity. That same year, he met Gala, his future wife, muse, and business partner. Gala handled all legal matters in his career for the remainder of his life. Though most well known for his paintings, Dalí also produced films, created visual art, wrote books, gave lectures, and became famous world wide because of his eccentric lifestyle. From 1960 to 1974, he designed and created the Dalí Teatro Museo (Dalí Theatre and Museum) in Figueres to house his work. He was buried there after his death on January 23, 1989.

FEDERICO GARCIA LORCA was born on June 5, 1898 in Fuente Voqueros, Spain. He published his first book about his travels through Spain in 1919 while studying law in Granada. That same year he moved to Madrid to focus on his writing and became part of the Generation of '27 along with Salvador Dali. In the 1920s, he received critical acclaim for his numerous volumes of poetry, including The Gypsy Ballads (1928), a collection of Spanish folk poems and ballads. In 1929, he traveled to New York and Cuba for a year during which he wrote his collection A Poet in New York (1940). In 1931, he was appointed as the director of La Barraca, a mostly student theater company that toured Spain giving free performances of classic Spanish drama as well as Lorca's own work. It was also at this time he wrote his three most famous plays, Blood Wedding (1932), Yerma (1934), and The House of Bernarda Alba (1936). He remained in Spain after the outbreak of the Spanish Civil War and was assassinated by Francisco Franco's nationalist soldiers on August 19, 1936.
